The Devil's Dance.

In the Episcopal Convention

held in Lynchburg, Virginia,

Bishop White delivered an elaborate annual address, in which he earnestly deprecated the evil of round dancing.

Referring to the address of his venerable predecessor, Bishop Johns, in 1872, he said that distinguished divine warred communicants against the inconsistency of indulging in "a demoralizing dissipation," which he denounced as "that lascivious mode of promiscuous dancing still the round dance." "This scandal," he said, "is not to be tolerated in the Church of Christ. Let every appeal be made in the way of affectionate remonstrance, judicious teaching," and "earnest prayer for the reformation of those who are so far from God." "If all such efforts, however, fail, it will be necessary to awaken the offender to a sense of his sin and danger; and it, becoming necessary to resort to the exercise of disciplinary power, it must be done."

I adopt this language as my own, that he, being dead, may yet speak at this important matter. Perhaps his words may be "too strong and harsh," but when they were first uttered, they were very different from those of "six years ago," and they are still different from those of "today." "The fact," he said,

"is that many of our wisest and best people, ministers and laymen, judging the tree by the fruit, have become alarmed lest the effect of this disciple of round dancing shall be not only to injure pure and angelic souls, but even to sap the very foun-

Tribute of Respect.

At a meeting of Hopkinsville Lodge No. 37 A. F. M. held on the 5th day of February 1880, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted, viz:

Whereas our Grand Master above has seen fit to call our deceased Brother, Wm. Mills from the rolls of earth to that rest which awaits the just, be it therefore

Resolved, That we recognize in our late brother the many noble and virtuous qualities which combine to make a generous, good, and faithful friend, a courageous and humble citizen, and a true and trusty Mason.

Resolved, That we in the recognition of his many virtues we deeply deplore the loss which we as a lodge, and the community at large have sustained.

Resolved, That we will imitate as far as possible his laudable zeal for the teachings of our society.

DEATHS.

Mr. L. B. Morris an old and well known citizen died at his residence near the city, yesterday morning. He was a clever gentleman and a good citizen and leaves many friends to regret his demise.

Mr. Edward Buckner formerly of this county, died at Walnut Grove, Sacramento county, Cal. Jan. 25th in the 28th year of his age. He was a young gentleman of many estimable qualities, and he leaves many friends and relatives in this county who will learn with deep regret of his untimely death.

Infanticide.

A box containing a dead child was found buried in an old lot among some cedars, on Russellville street Sunday evening by some boys. They reported the affair, and it was looked into by the authorities. The box was a small one and was barely covered with earth. The child was found to be a white male, and its skull was crushed, and it bore other marks of violence. It had evidently been there several days. An inquest was held Monday morning, but nothing was elicited to solve the mystery.

HERE AND THERE.

Water was king last Friday.

Come out to the debating society next Friday night.

Judge Landers is administrator of Mr. Wm. Mills' estate.

An item, an item a kingdom for a good sensational item.

A new house is being put up on the railroad near the old slaughter ground.

A large proportion of the beans of the city are small boys, "trying size" as it were.

Attention is called to the new advertisements of Messrs. D. R. Beard, and J. M. Henry.

The frame of Mr. Webb's new house on Main street next to Mr. Henry Gant's is up.

"Twenty dollars to find out who sent it" is what a good many of the boys say who received insulting comic valentines.

Some one is erecting a new cottage opposite Mr. Hopper's near the one recently put up by W. A. Goodwin.

A chicken fight on the street was one of the interesting items to the small boys last week.

The officers on the passenger train of the St. L. & E. R. road have recently donned new and handsome uniforms.

Excavations have been made for the erection of a new dwelling on Russellville street next to George Bradley's.

Messrs. Moore & Edmund's stable is near the river and when they went to it Friday morning they found their horses belly deep in water.

There is a big hole over the sewer on Nashville street near Ferguson's saloon that should be covered. The late freshet washed the planks away.

Reader were you ever called upon to talk when you had nothing to talk about? Then you can appreciate the situation when a paper is to fill up and no news afloat.

A Valentine party was given at the College at 4 o'clock Saturday evening, for the amusement of Prof. Hunt's pupils. The Prof. kindly extended an invitation to us to attend.

Solomon was a wise man, and built his house upon a foundation of rock, and when it flood came and the waters encompassed it, it did not fail, but remained there even until the waters subsided.

We want a correspondent at Longview, Garrettsburg, Hellewell, Hopkingsburg and Trenton. A correspondent who will send us a weekly letter at least once a month from these places, will be furnished with the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN gratis.

Mr. Phil Reid who is well known to many of our people was married to a young lady in Gallatin, Tenn., not long ago. He is a step son of Mr. Jas. E. Jenson, and went from this county to Gallatin, last fall. May his cup of happiness be always full to the brim.

We notice a new departure of the railroad authorities is to have the weather prognostications telegraphed from Washington every morning and hung up at the reception room at the depot. It has been observed that seldom, if ever, has the weather been otherwise than as predicted.

We wish to say that it is not necessary "to kill the editor and burn the office" in order to stop the South KENTUCKIAN. Of course we dislike to lose a subscriber, but every man is supposed to know his own business best and if he don't want our paper we don't compel him to take it.

Our jolly good friend Jno. Cooper is "right side up with care" again and improving in health every day. He had a long and troublesome siege of five months and we are very glad to see him up again. The Knights of Honor and Knights of Pythias Lodges, to which he belongs each paid him five dollars a week during his sickness. The caring for sick members is one of the principal objects of these worthy benevolent societies.

Mr. Frank T. Gorman an experienced merchant tailor of New York, and recently of Louisville, has made arrangements to open up a first class establishment in this city, at Hord's new building. He will open by next Monday and will conduct the business on a good scale. He will keep a full stock of the best material and will make clothing as cheap as it can be obtained in the city. He will be assisted by Mr. Thompson formerly of Elkhart. Our people should patronize home industries especially when they can save money by so doing. Mr. Gorman comes highly recommended and we bespeak for him a good business. Read his advertisement.

The river got about as high Friday as some of the boys did Christmas. In fact the fairly boomed, and backed up Nashville street nearly to the Phoenix Hotel. One of the street lamps near Dr. Gish's was surrounded and burned nearly all day. Mr. Louis Solomon, whose house is opposite the residence of Dr. Gish, was found himself completely at sea, with the water up to the floor of his house. The boys—wicked fellows—congregated on the banks and sang "Home sweet home" to him. One enterprising dorky launched a skiff upon the turbulent waters and the novelty of the thing made it quite a lucrative undertaking for him. The freshet thoroughly drenched the streets, which were needling it badly. The cellars are all full of water, but no damage of consequence was done. If we had such a river all the time we would not ask railroads any odds.

Owing to the negligence of the janitor, the hall of the Hopkinsville Debating Society was not lighted up on last Saturday night, consequently there was no debate at that time. There will be a meeting on next Saturday at 7 1/2 o'clock, P. M., in the basement of the Christian church, at which time the question, "Should the inexplicable to contract &c. imposed upon married women by the common law be removed," will be debated. Affirmative John W. Payne, alternate E. G. Sebree, negative B. F. Bule, alternate, Prof. L. H. Filippo. The public is invited to attend.

SINKING FORK.

Mind! Mind! Mind!

Rev. J. U. Spurlin, assisted by Rev. Mr. Porter, will begin a series of meetings at the Brick Church 3d Sunday. We hope the people will appreciate the opportunity afforded them for hearing good preaching and turn out liberally.

Miss Emma Reushaw has a flourishing school now in progress at the Brick Church. She is a good teacher and we are glad to see a good school once more in our midst. We would love to see the people wake up to their interest and their duty to their children and give them the opportunities of at least a common school education.

It has been so unfavorable, owing to the state of the roads and cold weather, that many of our farmers have not been able to put their tobacco on the market yet. Many of them complain of the low price and therefore are in no hurry to sell.

We are glad to see an advancement in corn and pork and in most all kinds of merchandise, and look forward to a corresponding advance in tobacco soon.

We have had the most uncommonly healthy season: The Doctors say they will have to make calls or go to plowing for their living if it continues so long. We hear of the whooping-cough in some parts of the country, but none in the vicinity except in Mr. Henry Litter's family.

W. T. Hunt, Esq., did not leave for Bowling Green, as was reported some weeks ago. We suppose she said "yes" and he concluded to "hang near" it. We wish you success, William, but his Leap Year remember.

The young ladies of the neighborhood contemplated giving a strawberry and ice cream supper at Shiloh, to repair the church roof. We will give you a free ticket, Bro. Meacham!

We wish we had something to write, but we haven't, so on record.

CROFTON.

Forty years ago to-night George Deavenport made his debut upon the stage of life. Forty years ago, a tiny, feeble, and many-told hopes and brighter anticipations scattered; how many ambitions realized and lost; how many scenes of sorrow, of joy, of sunshine and of shadow; how many long, long, dreary hours of suffering; how many joyous, hilarious moments of pleasure; how many all these have failed to tell.

We know not; but we presume his life's river has run on and on in the regular channel now striking a boulder, then a pebble. To-day was the anniversary of his birth, and in order to celebrate it, he gave the young people of this vicinity a party, and it was a party right, a grand one, a glorious one, the recollections of which will come rushing up ever before us as we move on down the road way of life. Did you ever notice that there are epochs in all our lives all our lives to cherish in our memories: oases in the desert sands, silver threads among the gold, sunny ripples beyond the clouds? Who among us does not fondly cherish away down in his or her heart, the gentle pressure of the loved one's hand or some other trifling circumstance he would not forget for all the glittering baubles or fleeting honors a flicker would bestow? But we are digressing; just how to do this party justice on paper is a hard task. To be properly appreciated it must be enjoyed and felt. No thoughts that breathe or words that burn can, on paper, tell of the joyous dance, the scintillations of wit, the sparkle of eyes lit up by young love's first light, or of the thousand little incidents that came and went this happy, thrice blessed day.

Some of the boys say they hope Mr. Deavenport will so arrange his almanac that his birth-day will come about every six weeks, and that he will celebrate each and every one of them just as he did this one, and when the grim ferryman shall demand for the dark river, when, as Mr. Elmsworth would say, the laughter freezes to his lips, and the roses fade from his cheeks, that he will like the faithful man's body "die a burning."

There were about twenty young ladies present; the very cream of the country, the lights of the social circle, the belles of the county. We will not say who was the prettiest, but will say that there were some as sweet faced girls there as we ever gazed upon. If a stranger were to ask us what this day of Christian practice, we would answer, "It was a beautiful, a very beautiful day, and it was a very beautiful day."

We cannot say how many vows of eternal constancy were breathed softly into willing ears, or how many tenderly whispered "I do's" echoed back from ready lips.

We give it as our opinion that Geo. L. did more old fashioned, hard, old-fashioned, and right, than any other man present. In fact if you were to pin a breakfast shawl around a pale ghost or the three yards of blue ribbon around a lightning-rod, George would come bowling and scurrying like a tramp when he wants a collar, sonner, and whisper, "how are you enjoying yourself, Miss—"

Ben Y. gave us an exhibition of his dancing. He cut what he called the pigeon-wing, we overheard him say, "why don't you come out and out to the other corner toward the corner where we sat, and nursed our rheumatism like a pigeon wing. That may have been a pigeon wing, but we think it was all eagle wing, ten feet from tip to tip. Inspired and excited by the sparkle of bright eyes and dulcet strains of mellow music, Van D., accompanied by a fair-haired partner, took his stand upon the floor, and when the soft strains floated through the air, Van was the very poetry of a motion.

A negro girl, partly blind named Sao Morton left her home during the snow storm in Simpson county, Feb. 3 and was found dead in the road a week after she had frozen to death.

A young man named Frank Whitehouse was killed near Owensboro Junction last week by a tree which he was cutting falling upon him.

Madisonville Times: Harry Harlow, a negro man, whipped Bob Harlow, a son of J. W. Harlow, of this place, a few days ago. Some one shot a pigeon belonging to the negro and he accused young Harlow of doing it, and gave the boy a thrashing. The boy was innocent. The negro was arrested last Monday, and fined $10 and costs.

Trao Democrat: Our ancient friend, York Shoemaker, prefers feeling the jailer's postcard, in case it becomes a law.

If we understand correctly the whippings will flourish upon the sheriff, and our good friend Mr. Peal is big and strong enough to lay it on right.

Elkhart Recorder: One of the best indications of good times is the increase of price of lands in our country. Land is selling for more now than for several years.

Elkhart Recorder: A tramp stopped at Hindensville last Friday and inquired too freely of agua marta et damoniana. He left late in the evening very drunk. Monday morning he was found in an old field dead. It is supposed he froze to death Saturday night.

A boy and girl were married in Glasgow last week whose combined age was 31 years.

The negro was arrested last Monday, and fined $10 and costs.

TOBACCO NEWS.

Home and Foreign.

HOME MARKET.

The prospect for a tobacco crop for the current year is not good. The winter has been so mild that we may expect an unusual number of insects. Again the predicted wet weather is apt to delay both the plant beds being burnt in time and the proper preparation of the ground for planting. All of these things will come upon the farmer at once and the prospect is that the crop will be put in late, that the worms will be very bad and that much of the crop will be late enough to be in danger from frost before it is ripe. So far as we can learn only a small portion of plant land has been burned as yet, and consequently the plants will be late and the result named apt to follow.

The sales of Tobacco in Danville, Va., for the month of January was 4,553,025 pounds, which brought $499,352.32—an average of $11.22 per hundred. This is the largest sale of tobacco ever made in one month in that city, and almost as much as was sold during the last three months of 1879.

The Blaghampton, N. Y. cigar-makers, to the number of 350, are still on a strike, and funds are being raised among the New York city cigar-makers to aid them.

A large quantity of tobacco and cigars was sold lately in New York City on the steamer City of Washington, on the Havana line, upon her arrival from Cuba.

The two tobacco manufacturers in Middletown, Ohio, used about $26,000 worth of Revenue stamps during the month of January. A very good showing for the dulllest month of the year.

A little boy baby was born in Chicago a week or so ago with a full set of upper and lower teeth. This will enable him to start in ahead of the average boy, and chew tobacco before he gets his puncture of life.

Almost one-half of the tobacco crop of Simpson county, Ky., has been bought by various parties at an average of 4 1/2 c. through.

Farmers in the Blue Grass Region of Kentucky are turning their attention to the cultivation of tobacco, and we note several places as being rented for tobacco crops, some that have been in blue grass sod for 30 to 40 years.
